WALTER HENDL
ORCHESTRAL DIRECTOR

Throughout his exciting and distinguished career, Walter Hendl has been associated in the public mind with the highest levels of artistic excellence. The Erie Philharmonic, under his leadership has evolved into a celebrated metropolitan orchestra.

1984-85 will mark Walter Hendl's ninth season as

Orchestral Director of the Erie Philharmonic. During his tenure, the orchestra has shown dramatic growth in every major respect: the number of musicians employed, the scope of the orchestra's repertoire, the quantity and quality of performances and, perhaps most notably, the esteem in which the orchestra is held locally, and even nationally. Again and again, internationally acclaimed guest artists who have had the opportunity to perform with the Erie Philharmonic under Hendl's baton have lavished their praise on the Maestro and his ever-improving ensemble.

Before coming to Erie, Hendl was Assistant Conductor of the New York Philharmonic, Musical Director of the Dallas Symphony, Associate Conductor of the Chicago Symphony and Musical Director of the Chautauqua Symphony. He has conducted most of America's major orchestras to critical acclaim, as well as conducting extensively in Europe, South America and the Orient. He served for ten years as Director of the Eastman School of Music.

In the past two years, the Maestro's career as a distinguished guest conductor has undergone a genuine renaissance. By the end of this season, in addition to his duties with the Erie Phil, he will have served as guest conductor of Akron, Pittsburgh, Utah, Naples-Marco, San Diego and Dallas Symphonies, the student orchestras of Eastman and Juilliard, and as the only American judge at the prestigious Vianna da Motta international piano competition in Lisbon, Portugal.

Additional engagements with major symphony orchestras in this country and abroad are now being negotiated by Hendl's New York management, Shaw Concerts Inc.

THE ERIE PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRA

The Erie Philharmonic Orchestra marks its 71st anniversary during the 1984-85 season. The Philharmonic presented its first concert in the fall of 1913 with approximately fifty musicians and Franz Kohler, concertmaster of the Pittsburgh Symphony, directing. Since then seven conductors have led the orchestra, the longest tenure being that of James Sample, who was with the orchestra for over 10 years.

Seventy-one years later the Erie Philharmonic Orchestra has expanded to eighty musicians of excellent calibre. Orchestral Director Walter Hendl has brought a lifetime of musical knowledge and expertise to the Erie Philharmonic and in his ninth year continues to revitalize the Orchestra.

The Erie Philharmonic is the only major symphony orchestra serving the eight counties of Northwestern Pennsylvania. In a firm commitment to bring live music of good quality to an ever-expanding audience, the orchestra has performed within the past few years in Titusville, Corry, St. Mary's, Kane, Clarion, North East, Edinboro and Bradford. It has provided special concerts for senior citizens and students, has played in the Erie Zoo, the Waterford Square, and in Erie's Perry Square.
