

THE WOODWIND FAMILY

SAXOPHONE

The woodwind family sing their melodies above the rest of the orchestra. The instruments played most often are the flute, clarinet, oboe, and bassoon. They are played by blowing air into a hollow tube or over a reed made of wood. Some woodwind cousins are the saxophone, piccolo, English horn, e-flat clarinet, bass clarinet, and contra-bassoon.